From Fr Winthrop Fish - Just a brief note to introduce myself to you as I prepare to offer Mass with you on Ash Wednesday as supply for Fr Anil. I am a former Anglican priest who a number of years ago was received with my wife Jane into full communion in the Catholic Church. Both Jane and I had been contemplating this for many years, long before the present issues arose that now prompt Anglican clergy to make this profound decision. Our decision had to do with the absolute centrality of the Mass in the life and being of the Church. We soon became completely at home in the Catholic Church and the Bishop of Plymouth most kindly offered me Ordination to the sacred Priesthood of the Catholic Church, a grace which I continue to find an overwhelming joy. But now after over 45 years of ministries in parish and school in different aspects of God's vineyard in Canada and the UK and as pastor, teacher, and latterly an Anglican Diocesan Advisor, I am retired and Jane and I have moved to Kemnay, Inverurie, to be close to our family, where we are very happily settled in our new parish community. Both Jane and I look forward to being with you on Ash Wednesday as we offer Mass in company with the whole Church in every place.... even from Plymouth to Lerwick! Fr Win Fish
